

My name is Harry Potten, I am 20 years old and my hobby is programming. In my childhood I liked to play with other children of the same age, but there felt always something missing that I liked to do and that was my programming hobby. So I found what I was missing in my life when I was five years old and come along to work of a very important person to me and that was my father. There at work showed my father me how to program and that had a great impact to my life. I then went more programming until now. Nowadays I am busy following programming education at a university in London. I have already learned so much about programming in my childhood, so that why I was asked to work at London programming, that is a really good job and it's the biggest achievement of my life that from all the people they asked me to work there so I said yes.

My name is Liana Smith, I am 22 years old and my hobby is horse riding. In my childhood I liked to play with horses (even up to now in the present time I like to play with horses). There always felt something missing that I liked to do and that was riding a horse. So I found what I was missing in my life when I was about ten years old, come along to the house of my girlfriend from my primary school and she is very important person to me. Because she learned me how to horse ride when I was ten years old and that had a great impact to my life. I then went more riding horses until now. Nowadays I am busy following education to be a rider at a university in London. I have already learned so much since I am horse riding in my childhood, so that why I was asked from the horse riding school in London if I can teach other people to horse riding. So I clearly said yes, it's the biggest achievement of my life that I can teach other people just like I ever learned horse riding.
